PREFACE

This book is the results of fifteen years of work-- hundreds of letters, countless hours of research and study. It is far from complete. I had hoped to have more information on the ancestors of William Calhoun, but have been unable to do so. Also, I had hoped to have a complete record of all of the descendants of William Calhoun, but this has also evaded me. There are many reasons for this --- loss of contact with members of the family, lack of interest in family history, a mis-understanding of the importance of family history and just plain indifferance.

I am grateful to those who have helped to gather and furnish statistics and historical notes and those who have helped financially. I will continue working on the family history and possibly some day I may be able to print a suplement of additional information. I invite correspondence with those interested in this family and those who might be able to add information on some of the missing branches of this family tree.

I sincerly hope this record does not contain any errors, but realize there is chance for errors to appear. Sometimes information in letters or old documents is hard to read or conflicting information comes from different sources. If there are any errors I beg for your forgiveness as it is unintentional.

THE COAT OF ARMS

According to Mackennies "Colonial Families of the United States" the following is a description of the coat of arms of the Calhoun family;

"Argent, a Saltire engrailed sable."

Explanation;

Argent--white of silver, signifies peace and sincerity.

Saltire or St. Andrew's cross is the symbol of resolution. It is a variation of the cross and is formed by the combination of a Bend and a Bend sinister.

Sable--black, denotes constancy and sometimes, but most rarely, grief.

The crest-- a Hart's head couped gules.

Attired argent--supporters, two greyhounds argent, collared.

Motto;

Si Je Puis, If I Can. The War Cry, Cnock Elachan, The Badge, Hazel.

THE NAME

The name has had many spellings. In America the most common spelling is Calhoun or Colhoun. Other variations that we find here are Cahoon, Calhoon, and occasionally, Colquhoun.

In Scotland the most common spelling is Colquhoun, although it is also found as Colquhowne, Culchone, Colhoun, Conachon and Conach. It is also found there as Cowan, which is nearer to the sound of the pronunciation as we know it.

The name Colquhoun means "Son of a Warrior"

A few other spellings to be found are; Qulchone, Qulchon, Cahun, Kilwhone, Kelquon, Culqwon, etc.

HISTORY OF THE CLAN COLQUHOUN

The family is a very ancient one, the earliest history being obscure. There are many stories and legends on it's earliest origins. The most prominent one is that the family descends from Conach, an early Irish king during the reign of Gregory the Great (875-891 A.D.).

The first actual recorede ancestor is Umpridus de Kilpatrick, who received a grant of the lands of Colquhoun in Dumbartonshire from Alexander II. He gave up the name Kilpatrick and assumed that of Colquhoun, which was carried down through his posterity. He had a son, Sir Robert de Colquhoun who headed the clan from 1260 to 1280 and was succeeded by his son Ingleramius de Colquhoun whb lived during the reign of Alexander III. Next in line was Sir Humphrey de Colquhoun who had a son, Sir Robert Colquhoun "dominus de eadem, (Lord "of that ilk" or clan) who in the reign of King David Bruce married the daughter and sole heiress of Umpredus de Luss, head of the ancient clan of that namd, which had long flourished in Dumbartonshire. This joined two ancient families of Scotland. After this marriage, Sir Robert was designated "Robertus dominus de Colquhoun et de Luss". (Robert the Lord of Colquhoun and Luss).

Sir Robert was ordered by King David Bruce to take the castle of Dumbarton, which was heavily fortified. He wrote to the King, "Si je puis", meaning "if I can". He called his clan and hounds together for a great hunt, and using this strategy, he lured the guards from the castle to join the hunt. While the castle was left unguarded he took possesion of it. For this he was created earl of the castle. The crest confered on him for this deed of valor was the stag's head, indicating the chase, supported by two ratch hounds.

THE EARLY ONES

The earliest ancestors that I am really sure of are James Calhoun Sr. and his wife Janet Johnston who came from Guilford county, North Carolina from Virginia. The earliest immigrants settled in New England, one Samuel Calhoun being the first of our line to go to Virginia. Many historians have felt that James or Patrick Calhoun who married Catherine Montgomery in Scotland and immigrated to America in 1733 is the ancestor of all of the early American Calhouns' but this seems unlikely as there are so many branches of the family that have tried unsuccessfully to trace to him. Most of the lines have a tradition of being related to John C. Calhoun, the statesman who is a descendant of this James and Catherine, but finding any information to document this has eluded many who have tried. There may be a relationship among these different Calhouns families, but they have yet to be found.

Our James Calhoun Sr., was born about 1735, his will was written 20 Jan. 1795 and proved at the February court, 1795 in Guilford county, North Carolina. His wife Janet (or Jean, Jane, Jennet or Jenny, some of the names that are used inter-changeably by the Scotch) wrote her will 10 June 1804 and it was proved in May 1805 in Guilford county, N.C. Their children were as follows; Samuel "Big Sam" who married Mary Hargroves and settled first in Barnwell county, South Carolina and later in Montgomery county, Ga. and founded a large family there. Mr. Jack Ladson Jr., P.O.Box 584, Vidalia, Ga. 30474 is a descendant and the best authority on this line. Next is James Calhoun Jr. who is the ancestor to the line in this book. He married Sarah _____ , and was the father of William who married Hannah Meredith; James Shadrack who married first Polly Smith and second Susanna Nichols, Moses who married Sally Cruchfield, Enoch who married Polly Flinn and Samuel who married Lerissa Parish. There were probably other children, but they are unknown to the author at this time.

The Calhouns are a hardy race, tracing their history to the harsh climate and enviorment of their Scottish homeland. In this severe but beautiful land only the strong could thrive. They are a stubborn people with great determination, courage and loyalty. The Colquhouns (as the name is spelled in Scotland) were related to the Royal family and held many high positions in government and the church. The lands of the Colquhouns are situated on the banks of the famous Loch Lommond, and are still in possession of the heirs of the family after over seven hundred years.

Many of the descendants of the early American Calhouns have inherited the strong Calhoun traits of character, for good or bad, however they have put it to use. Those who have made the effort have been outstanding in their chosen fields. It is because of a love and respect for these pioneers and colonists that I have printed this history of my branch of the family. I am grateful for the heritage they have left to us, and for their part in building and establishing our great country.

On the 5th of Aug. 1829 he took out a marriage bond to marry Miss Hannah Meredith, a daughter of John and Mary Knight Meredith who were members of the Quaker community of New Garden in Guilford county, North Carolina. She was born 13 June 1812. (The Quaker record shows her birth as 12 May 1813. Hannah died the 15th of August 1851 at the age of 39, a few days after giving birth to her 9th child, who also died. Their children were as follows;

1- Nathan William Calhoon was born in Guilford county, N.C., May 13 1831. Their belongings were loaded onto a cart and they walked the hundreds of miles to Missouri. The mother and the younger children were allowed to ride some, but for the most part they all did their share of walking. 6- Mary Elizabeth Calhoun was born in Guilford county, N.C. 31 Jan. 1844. She married John William Hodge, the son of Susan and Archibald Hodge in Forsyth county, on Dec. 22, 1864. He served in the confederate army during the Civil War. They first settled in Bartholomew county, Indiana, after traveling there by covered wagon between 1866 and 1869, then they lived in Grant county, as their permanent home after spending some time in Shelby and Howard counties of Indiana. She died 6 June 1888 in Houstonia, Pettis county, Mo. and Charles married 2nd, Agnes Lee Winston, a widow. They had no children. Miriah was the daughter of Robert Hall who was born 28 March 1810 in County Cork, Ireland and died 17 July 1895 in Shelbyville, Mo. Her mother was Jane Robertson who was born 6 Nov. 1819 in Marion co, Ohio and died 1 Sept. 1853. Charles Andrew Calhoun died 6 Sept. 1938 at Lamonte, Pettis county, Mo. He was a blacksmith. THE THIRD GENERATION

1-1 Sarah Jane Calhoun, born 14 Nov. 1850 in Winston-Salem, Forsyth county, N.C. married in 1870, John P. Graham, a native of Pennsylvania. He died in 1875 when their only child was 4 years old. Sarah moved to Calif. and settled in San Diego in the 1920's. Their only child was Effie Pringle Graham. She was born in Sweet Springs, Saline co., Mo., 10 July 1871. Her father died when she was a small child, but her mother never remarried. Theymoved to Kansas City, Mo., where Effie worked as a supervisor in a book bindery. They later moved to San Diego, Calif. Effie married Charles Cushan Kellogg in Kansas City, June 15, 1898. He was a son of Sherman and Lydia Margaret Graham Kellogg and was born 11 Nov. 1868 in Stanley, Kansas. Charles Kellogg died 24 Aug. 1928 in San Diego, Calif. He worked in a Department store and later went into insurance. Effie and Charles never had children. Effie died 12 July 1958 in Riverside, Calif. She and her husband are both burried at Greenwood Memorial Cemetary in San Diego, Calif., as is her mither Sarah Jane Graham. Effie was very strong in her opinions and not at all reluctant to express them, even though she might not be agreed with. She was very good hearted and had a lively sense of humor.

1-2 Hannah Elizabeth Calhoun was born 13 Sept. 1852 in Winston-Salem North Carolina and married late in life. She was the second wife of Daniel Grow, a Civil War veteran and railroad yardmaster. 1-3 William Franklin Calhoun was born 5 April 1855 in Winston-Salem, N.C. He died 10 May 1896 in Pettis county, Mo. The story is told that he had a terrible fear of dying with his boots on. This was considered bad because it implied that a person had been killed while breaking the law, and he was so sensative about it that when he was about to die (from a heart attact) that he could only think of getting his boots off so that he could preserve his reputation. The family succeeded in removing his boots, so he passed on considerably relieved of one worry at least. He married 16 March 1880, Sarah Catherine Weathers, a native of Lamonte, Pettis county, Mo. She was the daughter of William Carrington Weathers and Mary Elizabeth Divers. She was born 3 April 1856 and died 21 April 1903 at Knob Noster, Johnson county, Mo. Their children were;

7 & 8 Twins who died at birth

1-4 John Wesley Calhoun, born 16 July 1857 in Winston-Salem, N.C. He was only two years old when his father Nathan Calhoun took his family from North Carolina to Missouri. It is told of John that one time on the trip to Missouri the family decided that he needed some exercise and they put him off the cart to walk for a while. He decided against it and sat down and refused to walk. The family moved on and after they had traveled some distance and were out of sight, they stopped and waited. After waiting some time and John didn't appear, they sent one of the older children back to see what had happened to him. They found him sitting in the exact spot where they had left him -- he had not budged. This trait of stubbornness remained with him the rest of his life, for better or for worse. When he was 13 years old his father died, so his mother took her young children and lived with her son William.

In appearance, John Wesley Calhoun was typically Scotch-Irish. He had auburn hair and very deep set, very, very blue eyes, thick bushy eyebrows and a very penetrating gaze. He was of stocky build, about five feet eight inches tall, broad of shoulder and was exceptionally strong and healthy. He had very little sickness until old age caught up with him. He had one affliction, however, he was "hard of hearing". He had extremely strong nerves and the things which affected most people didn't faze him.

In character he was very egotistical, had a good opinion of him-self and was therefore susceptible to flattery, especially personal compliments. While under the spell of flattery he was generous. He was very steady of nerve and was good at careing for the sick and looking after the dead.

John was na accomplished violin player and was in great demand to play at dances. He played by ear and put lots of feeling, harmony and rythum into his music. He was also a graceful dancer and liked to dance. His sense of humor was subtle, and at times he could be overbearing.

In the days when machinists were few and far between, he was an excellant mechanic. This was only one of his natural talents. He had little formal education, but had exceptional talents in many fields. He had a threshing machine and went from farm to farm doing threshing for people. In the winter he used the engine for sawing lumber. He was a good horseman, liked horses and they seemed to like him. He was good at training and handling horses, did his own blacksmith work and veterinarian work. His hobby was fishing and he spent as much time as he could at this. (A fortune teller reading his palm told him he had been born with a fishing line across his palm.)

He was a law abiding citizen, an accomidating neighbor, and was good in emergencies where extra strength, courage and bravery were needed. Where leadership, risk and quick decisions were needed he supplied them. He was typical of the pioneers who built this country and had strong characteristics of the Scotch-Irish people. (This outline of the character of John Wesley Calhoun is the personal opinion of Hortense Calhoun Streening, as told her by her mother and from her own experience.)

John Wesley Calhoun was first married to Sallie Jennie Janney on Sept. 23, 1880 in Lamonte, Mo. They had two children, George Nathan and Bertha Lee. They were born in 1881 and 1882 and both they and their mother died in 1882. Next John married Mary Jane Weathers on April 19, 1885 in Lamonte. She was born in Lamonte, Oct. 23, 1857 and was the sister of Sarah Catherine who married Johns brother, William F. They were of English, Irish and German descent. Mary Weathers Calhoun had dark, almost black hair and gray eyes. She was of medium height and slender build. She was never of robust health and spent the last years of her life as an invalid. She was well educated, thorough in habit, religious in nature, very honest, sincere and conscientious. Her faith and persaverance carried her through many extremely trying experiences in her life. She was a good wife and mother. She died Dec. 3, 1920 at her home in McAllister Springs, Saline county, Mo. Their children were;

1- Topsy Mae, married 1) William S. DeShazo, 2) Walter Tuchfarber

2- John Clay, married Brownie Berry

3- Nella Faye married Herbert S. Tuchfarber

4- William Guy, married Daphne Shackleford

5- Mary Elizabeth, died unmarried

7- William Franklin, unmarried

A Brief History of the Descendants of John Wesley and Mary Weathers Calhoun

1- Topsy Mae Calhoun was born Jan. 10, 1886 on a farm near Houstonia, Pettis county, Mo. She grew up to be a very pretty young lady, she has a charming personality, with plenty of self-confidence and poise. She is tactful and diplomatic in her dealings with others. One quality which added to her attraction is her sweet musical voice and laughter. Shortly after finishing school, she left home to make her own way in the world. She found employment at Sedalia, Mo., where she lived with her aunts and cousin, Hannah Elizabeth and Sarah Jane and Sarahs' caughter Effie. While living in Sedalia she met William S. DeShazo, a young medical student, and in the course of time they became engaged to be married. In the meantime her aunts and cousin moved to Kansas City, Mo., taking Mae with them. After leaving home she dropped the name of Topsy, which she never liked and became known as Mae.

After about five years, Wm. DeSahzo finished his Medical course, but in the meantime he had contracted tuberculosis. He knew his days were numbered, but was bery much in love and wished to be married anyway. They were married June 2, 1910. He died June 30, 1910. His home had been in Lubock, Texas. Mae Calhoun DeShazo married next, Walter Charles Tuchfarber who was the widower of Mae's cousin Essie Calhoun who had also died of tuberculosis. Mae and Walter had one son, Walter Jr., whom they raised with Walters daughter, Helen Bonita. Walter Jr., was born Nov. 3, 1914.

Mae and Walter were like second parents to her younger brothers and sisters. They were always very hospitable and kept open house to the family. Mae is a very kind and understanding persoh. She has been a good wife and mother. Walter St., died in 1959. He was a railway mail clerk until his retirement.

Walter Jr., is a successful businessman, being Executive Vice-president of LaMaur, a cosmetics firm in St. Paul, Minn. His hobbies are hunting and fishing, golf and boating.

2- John Clay Calhoun was born 22 Jan. 1888, near Houstonia, Mo. In appearance he was of sandy complection, had light red hair and blue eyes, was of medium build, about five feet eight inches tall. In character he was a [illegible] friendly, generous person, and kept his temper well under control. However, he would not be imposed upon. Characteristic of the Calhoun family, he was independent and stubborn. He was very popular with the ladies and children adored him. It was not unusual to see him driving around with six or seven youngsters in his car -- just showing them a good time. In his younger days, boys were espected to help at home when needed, and father needed him to help run the threshing reg. Like his father he was mechanically inclined and followed that occupation through out his life. He served in World War I

He trainged near Waco, Texas. Before his training was completed he had a bout with pnemonia which nearly cost him his life. In the meantime the Armistice was signed and he was never sent overseas. Never-the-less, "Mae" Calhoun was born 8 Dec. 1869 or 70 in Sweet Springs, Mo., and died 9 Aug. 1937 in Phoenix, Maricopa county, Ariz. She married Joseph Henry Stephens 11 Sept. 1890 in Los Angeles Calif. He was born in Roseburg, Oregon, 17 Feb. 1866, and died in 1940. The Stephens were early developers of Hereford cattle on the range and had many fine animals. I remember Uncle Joe and Aunt Mae when I was a very young child. Uncle Joe was very deaf and when he came for a visit, the family borrowed my slate to write notes to him on. He always had a pocketful of candy for the kids.

Joe and Mae had two children, Etta Mable and Harry Earl. Etta was born in 1891 and died 9 Sept. 1957. She married Thomas J. Koontz 31 Dec. 1914. They had one child, Phylis, who was born 21 Jan. 1919.
